Solving Global Complex Problems

Promotes interdisciplinary learning and develops essential 21st century skills. Encourages diverse career paths beyond traditional disciplines.

Is it time to change the way we think?

Solutions to the world's most complex and interconnected problems won't come from a single specialism or subject. Our specialist Interdisciplinary programme teaches students how to tackle complex problems by applying knowledge and skills from a range of subjects across the arts, sciences and humanities.

This innovative programme will empower student groups to work collectively on their chosen complex problem, with support from the team at BSC and LIS, resulting in an end of programme portfolio of work.

Course outcomes

- Be able to consider academic and career paths related to problems they care about
- 21st Century skills (interdisciplinary thinking, critical thinking, teamwork, collaboration, communication and problem solving)
- Professional development and much more

Topics Include:

- Inequality
- Climate change
- The ethics of AI
- Sustainability

An offspring of a group of academics, entrepreneurs and investors, LIS was born in 2020, becoming the first UK university since the 1960s to receive Degree Awarding Powers from inception (the last one was Warwick in 1965).

LIS is founded upon a core belief: the 21st-century leader requires a broad set of interdisciplinary approaches and methods to tackle the world's most complex problems.

LIS follows a problems-first, interdisciplinary approach, grounded in rigorous methods, with real-world applications.

How the programme works

- Two full days with LIS tutors to focus on the chosen complex problems and introduce students to Interdisciplinary Concepts, Learning, Thinking, and Methods.
- Students then form their Problem Groups and choose which complex problems they will focus on
- Each group is assigned a coach from the LIS team to support them with their projects.
- A dedicated team of BSC teachers will support students throughout the programme and facilitate the project sessions every afternoon. They will also accompany students to and from the LIS campus every day
